ANGLO-SAXON UNITY.
THE ARBITRATION PROPOSALS.
NO DEFINITE DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE.

PORT DOUGLAS WRECKED.
TWO MEN KILLED.
HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE HOMELESS.

FIVE HORSES FALL.
ACCIDENT AT WARWICK FARM.
SEVERAL JOCKEYS INJURED.

LONDON, March 18. Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a speech while presiding at the annual dinner of the International Arbitration League, acknowledged the cordial sympathy underlying Mr. Hall's helpful words relating to the proposed arbitration treaty with the United States in the House of Commons on Thursday night. He (the speaker) said he recognized that the Unionists had initiated arbitration treaties.

Sir Edward Grey, continuing, said that he did not intend to convey the idea that a general arbitration treaty between the two great nations would be tantamount to a defensive alliance, though, he added, if one became the object of attack in the circumstances he thought there would be a strong sympathy between the two treaty Powers.

That was a matter dependent on public opinion, but specific the introduction into a treaty of a condition as he had indicated might impair its chances here and elsewhere, and might lead others to suppose that the treaty was aimed at them. This would completely spoil its possible effect in mitigating the expenditure on armaments.

PRESIDENT TAFT DELIGHTED.

UNIVERSAL PEACE HOPED FOR.

WASHINGTON, March 19. President Taft has expressed himself as delighted with the favourable reception in England of the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

He says he has every reason to hope that other nations will follow the lead of Britain, and that ultimately universal peace will be brought about.

LABOUR LEADER'S VIEW.

LONDON, March 18. Speaking last night in reference to the proposed arbitration treaty between Britain and the United States, Mr. J. Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the Labour party in the House of Commons, said that he rejoiced in the aspirations towards arbitration that were being evinced, but they could do more harm than good if the opinion got abroad that there was going to be a superior Anglo-Saxon alliance imposing its will upon the whole world.

REFERENCES IN THE CHURCHES.

LONDON, March 18. The Free Church Council has arranged that there shall be special references to the proposed arbitration treaty between Britain and the United States in all the churches to-morrow.

BAGHDAD RAILWAY.

THE LATEST ARRANGEMENT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 18. The Porte has allowed the Bagdad Railway Company to extend the line to Bagdad. The company renounces its lien on the 4 per cent. increase in the Customs duties receiving instead the security of the empire's general revenues. The company will build the branch from Osmannie to Alexandria, and to construct a harbour at the latter place.

THE BAGHDAD-GULF SECTION.

LONDON, March 18. Rester's Constantinople correspondent states that the Bagdad Railway Company had agreed to the Porte arranging for the construction of the section of the line from Bagdad to the Persian Gulf on the basis of Germany participating equally with any other foreign power.

ROOSEVELT DAM.

A BIG ARIZONA WORK.

CHICAGO, March 17. Mr. Roosevelt yesterday formally "opened" a great storage dam in Arizona in connection with the Salt River irrigation project.

The dam forms a reservoir 25 miles long, containing water sufficient to submerge a third of one foot. It is the second largest dam in the world. It will irrigate 250,000 acres, and is expected to make the valley in which it is situated the most fertile in America.

The dam is to be known as the Roosevelt Dam.

PARLIAMENTARY "SCENE."

THE RETORT UNCOURTEOUS.

OTTAWA, March 19. There was a lively scene in the House of Commons last night, when Mr. Glen Campbell, on being accused of not having acted in the interests of the country by seeking to influence the Lands Department, called Dr. Neely a liar.

An uproar followed, and the Deputy Speaker was unable to restore order for some time, a number of members asserting that the accusation ought to be withdrawn before the retort.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

LABOUR LEADER'S ATTITUDE.

LONDON, March 18. Mr. J. Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the Labour party in the House of Commons, in a speech last night, said that while acquiescing in a readjustment of the relations between the House of Lords and the House of Commons, he would strenuously oppose the proposal to the Parliament Bill, which contemplated the creation of another second Chamber in the place of the existing one.

HOUNDSITCH MURDERS.

EVIDENCE OF MILITIA.

LONDON, March 17. Luba Milstein, the young dressmaker who was arrested on suspicion in connection with the Houndsitch murders, and was subsequently discharged, gave evidence at the trial of the suspects to-day.

The witness stated that her first statement was not quite true. She was afraid, she said, of implicating the people in Grove street, and also feared that she might be charged with being concerned in the murder.

Money advanced upon all securities, N.W.M. Mont de Piste D. & Co., Ltd., 12, Castle-street, 74, Sydney, and 17 Hunter-street, Newcastle, Justice Bennett, Q.M.R.—Adri.

LONDON, March 18. The "Times" says it is curious, and perhaps significant, that in the debate on the naval estimates in the House of Commons there has been practical silence in regard to the Dominion's preparations to assist the motherland in sea defence; yet Admiral Henderson's report to the Commonwealth Government has attracted wide attention; likewise Sir Joseph Ward's recent speech in Sydney.

"The Dominions," the paper goes on to say, "recognise by past co-operation that changes may occur rendering it advisable to re-establish the basis of the Far Eastern fleet, necessitating the inclusion of Dreadnoughts."

If Admiral Henderson's proposals are accepted, Australia may provide two armoured cruisers in 1915 instead of one. If India, Ceylon, and the Straits' Settlements combine with Australia to provide a majority of the Eastern fleet, the homeland could not decline to supply the other half. Twelve armoured cruisers in the Pacific would be none too many."

SOUTH AFRICA.
THE SHIPPING RING.

CAPETOWN, March 18. The Union Parliament has adopted the clause in the Post Office Bill excluding from mail contracts any shipping company maintaining the rebate system.

THE LANGUAGE QUESTION.

CAPETOWN, March 18. In a report submitted to the House of Assembly last night the Education Committee recommended that an arrangement should be arrived at in regard to the question of the teaching of languages whereby parental option in the matter would be recognised.

REFERENCE IN THE CHURCHES.

LONDON, March 18. The Free Church Council has arranged that there shall be special references to the proposed arbitration treaty between Britain and the United States in all the churches to-morrow.

HOME RULE.
A MATTER OF COURSE.

LONDON, March 18. Mr. J. E. Redmond, leader of the Nationalist party in the House of Commons, in an article in "Reynolds'" newspaper, cites the granting of autonomy to Alsace-Lorraine, and also the existence of Germany's 25 autonomous States.

"Our own colonial experience," he says, "especially the latest instance in South Africa, has convinced me that the time is near when the successful working of Home Rule for Ireland will be taken as a matter of course."

THE MISSION TO AUSTRALASIA.

CHURCHES IN FRANCE.

TURNED INTO TAX OFFICES.

LONDON, March 19. Speaking on Saturday at the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the new Mormon Presbytery Church, Mr. Dugald Thomson said that politics was supposed to be the principal thing in Australia and when elections did not come round quickly enough those placing politics as the uppermost consideration had referred to it as "politics." The gathering that day showed unmistak scattered along both sides of the river, were together. It is evident that the river is not so striking as some other rivers, running close to its upper waters.

"As we were bound on the rapid course, and then make rapids. The rapids continued for 120 miles, which we travelled in 34 days, necessitating frequent stops to make sago, the supply of which was very precarious. Then we made rats, and reached the coast, finding that the river was the Killoo, which we had followed for 100 miles, and which has its rise in the hills ranges."

Considerable difficulties were experienced on the return journey. We had to wait for the P.L.L. Conference in silent State Ministers; in regard to the other, a strong protest against the threat made by the Prime Minister that the rejection of the proposals would lead to something worse.

"They have shut the mouths of your Ministers," said the senator, "and no greater crime can be committed against democracy than that." (Cheers.) The politicians are not to be liberty to give you the benefit of their judgment now—(cheers)—though I have no doubt the people of Leichhardt, who are represented by a Minister, would have expected that their representative, at a time of crisis, should be free to address them. Still some power has been taken that opportunity from Ministers, and I am afraid that the administration of the men sent to Parliament will be immediately, and will send a full report and plan later.

Before leaving Port Moresby I made arrangements so that the current work would not be suspended during the absence of the minister. Under the Native Land Act, I have power to allow applicants for Charters of Survey to commence operations before the land is formally granted by the Executive Council. I do not anticipate that my unexpected length of absence will have retarded administrative matters."

GRAPHIC DETAILS.

Our Thursday Island correspondent, writing on Saturday, just after the despatch of Mr. Staniford Smith's telegram to the Minister for External Affairs, gives more graphic details of the experience than those outlined in Mr. Smith's official report.

"After sending two of his officers back to the island on December 7," writes our correspondent, "Staniford Smith led his party westward until crossing the hills plain abhorrent unknown, they reached a river, also known to them, which at first took to be the upper waters of the Shire River. This blocked their progress westward, and they then decided to try to make the mouth by following the river down to its mouth."

THE DISASTER.

They built rafts, and loading on them all their food supplies and ammunition, set out on their journey. Very soon, however, they came into a gully fully 1200 feet deep, through which the water of the river rushed fiercely over rocks and rapids. They had reached the centre of the gully before disaster overtook them. In one morning, before dawn, of the rapid in his root of rocks stood right in the middle of the stream. The raft carrying the men, white men was caught in a whirlpool, and there before they could do anything to avoid it were dashed on the rocks. The raft was smashed to pieces, and the three men were left to struggle for their lives in the water. They were unable to get up, and so swam down the river, and there was then able to climb out on the banks. He had lost sight of his companions, and after searching for them along the banks gave them up for dead.

Pratt and Bell, however, got out of the water higher up, and though they were opposite side of the river they were soon able to join each other. Pratt was caught in a whirlpool, and had almost lost his life, but he was swept near enough to the bank to grab himself out. He then set out to look for the rest of the party, and soon found Mr. Holman. One of the native policemen had also turned up by this time, and the three of them set about the river for Mr. Smith. They had been about five and a half days before finding any trace of him, and long before that time had come to the conclusion that he had been drowned. Then, however, they came across a native track leading down to a single branch on the river. Here, in their great relief and delight, they found Mr. Smith. They had been about five and a half days before finding any trace of him, and long before that time had come to the conclusion that he had been drowned. When you find the Prime Minister of a democratic country, issuing orders of this kind out of the blue, you feel that he has grown great."

A TERRIBLE JOURNEY.

The party then set off on its terrible journey, moving from camp to camp, passing through the most difficult of the native tracks, and were entirely without food except for the sago palms and bread fruit that they carried across. They made an attempt at first to light a fire, but the only matches they had with them were a few in their pockets that had been soaked with water, and the natives had no matches. They were unable to dry them, and eventually the party were able to start a fire with a stone. The fire was lit, and the party had with them the two of the natives, and two others, who had evidently been drowned, for they were never seen again.

THE RELIEF BOAT.

They were taken on board the relief boat, and provided with every comfort possible. For some days, however, they carefully dieted themselves, for fear of illness after their fast, but by the time they reached Daru, they had almost recovered. Beyond the town, however, they had gone through a series of native tracks, and the party had to go to the end of their journey to reach the coast. The end of their journey was reached when they met the steamer E. G. Haldane, which had been sent to bring them back to the coast. The party had to wait for the tide to turn, and then the steamer E. G. Haldane arrived. The party reached Daru at 10 p.m., and were told that the steamer E. G. Haldane had been delayed by bad weather. At last, when they were worn out with hunger and fatigue, they came across the rescue party, for they were never seen again.

MELBOURNE.

The gathering in connection with the Jubilee of the Independent Order of Rechabites had been held yesterday, when a picnic was held at Mt. Macedon. The weather was fine, and the party was well received by the rain. The sports programme having to be abandoned in favour of indoor amusements, the party adjourned to the hotel, where they were entertained by the band.

A service was held in St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral, and the service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Tucker, a past district chief ruler. A meeting was held to-night in the Temperance Hall, and the time when uniform liquor laws agreeable to the temperance party would be in force in all the States. Mr. and Mrs. Wines (of N.S.W.) delivered short addresses.

THREAT AND GARROTT.

CRIME AGAINST DEMOCRACY.

SILENCING MINISTERS AND MENACING THE PEOPLE.

STRONG CRITICISM BY SENATOR MILLEN.

There were two noteworthy features of the speech addressed at Leichhardt on Saturday—one a speech in defence of the P.L.L. Conference in silent State Ministers; in regard to the other, a strong protest against the threat made by the Prime Minister that the rejection of the proposals would lead to something worse.

"They have shut the mouths of your Ministers," said the senator, "and no greater crime can be committed against democracy than that." (Cheers.) The politicians are not to be liberty to give you the benefit of their judgment now—(cheers)—though I have no doubt the people of Leichhardt, who are represented by a Minister, would have expected that their representative, at a time of crisis, should be free to address them. MINISTERIAL INSPECTION.

GLEN INNES TO GRAPTON.

(By Our Special Reporter.)

GRAFTON, Sunday.

The Minister for Works (Mr. A. Griffith) and his suite, led by Mr. G. D. Bell, arrived this morning, and immediate preparations were made for the run across country to Grafton by motor car. The party, in addition to the Minister, consists of Mr. Griffith, Mr. G. S. Briner, M.A.R., for Raleigh, Mr. D. De Burgh, Mr. W. C. Adams, secretary to the Minister, and Mr. Frank Gribble, M.A.R., for the Northern Rivers. The main Cottage Hospital, where he was admitted, suffered from scalp wounds and abrasions, a fractured right hand and left leg.

TRAM ACCIDENTS.

On Saturday Raymond Fenwick, aged 4 years, a labourer, was killed in a tram accident, receiving severe wounds to the scalp and nose, and died on the way to the hospital. Mattheson, 12 years, was crushed between two vehicles on Friday night.

FELL THIRTY FEET.

John Maynard, 45, living at Rosebery-place, Balmain, was working at Lever Brothers' soap works, Balmain, on Thursday, when he fell a distance of 30 feet, and was admitted to the Royal Hospital about 7.30 a.m. on Saturday. An inquiry will be held.

WILSON'S CRICKET TEAM.

Unfortunately unfavourable weather interfered with the second day's play in the Warne Benefit Match, and the game was stopped in the afternoon. The rain continued, and after waiting for the game to be started, to draw stamps for the day, the spectators were allowed to leave. Matthews was the star of the day, and his performance in the first innings was brilliant. Matthews was missed by Bell, before he had secured a wicket. Keating, 12, of the team, opened the first innings of the Australian Eleven, who had to face a score of 364 made by the Rest of Australia. The team, in reply, scored 306, and won by 58 runs.
